APPLETON-LE-STREET is a parish and village on the old road from Hovingham to Malton, 1 mile west from Amotherby station on the Thirsk and Malton branch of the London and North Eastern railway, and 3½ west-north-west from Malton. The ecclesiastical parish consists of the townships of Amotherby (which will be found under a separate heading), Broughton, Hildenley and Swinton, also the hamlet of Easthorpe, in the Thirsk and Malton division of the Riding, Byedale wapentake, rural district, petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of Malton, archdeaconry of Cleveland and diocese of York. The church of All Saints is an ancient building of stone in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north porch and a western tower containing 3 bells; the foundation and some part of the base of the tower are probably of Saxon date; the church was restored and re-seated in 1855 by the late Rev. Charles Pierrepont Peach B.A. then vicar, to whose memory a stained window was erected in 1886 by the parishioners; the stained east window and a brass tablet in the chancel were erected in 1904 in memory of the late James and W. H. Fairbank esqrs. and Mrs. James Fairbank; in the east window of the south aisle is a mediæval shield of the Greystock family; there is a 13th century stone effigy of a lady, with the arms of the Colton family and on the south wall is an effigy of a lady of the 16th century; the oak panelling in the chancel was presented in 1912 in memory of Mrs. Peach; the roof was restored in 1904; there are 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1680. The living is a vicarage, with Amotherby annexed, joint net yearly value £474, with residence, in the gift of the Archbishop of York, and held since 1935 by the Rev. Cecil Willoughby Poignand M.A. of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, who resides at Amotherby. There are charities of £3 ros. yearly value. The trustees of the late Mr. James Arthur Fairbank are lords of the manor (which comprises the sub-manors of Amotherby, Broughton and Swinton). Mr. J. Fairbank, Mrs. M. E. Vasey, Mrs. M. Wilson, Mr. N. H. Fairbank and Mr. G. W. Fairbank are the principal landowners. The soil is partly clay and sandy; the subsoil is limestone, clay and sand. The chief crops are wheat and barley and there is some land in pasture. The population of the civil parish, inclusive of the hamlet of
